Dice Kingdom blends the traditional gameplay of Text-based Adventure games with a dice mechanic, adds a turn-based style of play, and gives players a unique game that is a mix of turn-based strategy management, text-based story, and roleplaying. In Silmaris: Dice Kingdom, players take on the role of a new ruler of Thylla, a valley in ancient Albion, where seven rival kingdoms are ruled by monarchs with a dice-based authority system. As rulers, players will expand their thalassocracy through trade, diplomacy, military pressure, and espionage. As a leader, they must balance their game of thrones as they defend their kingdom from external attacks and keep hold of their crown. By being careful and making the right choices, players will find their place in the game and rule their kingdom with an iron fist or achieve peaceful diplomacy, and eventually take over the other thalassocratic monarchs. Players build alliances with other rulers, negotiate with trade contacts, or send spies to gather information about their opponents. Players learn new skills and become more powerful as they progress through the game. Players will need to make their own decisions about what to do next, and these decisions will be linked to the different narrative storylines of the game. A rich and challenging main story will keep players engaged throughout the whole game, with dozens of different and intriguing interactive stories and unexpected twists! On top of that, in-game events will change the way a game is played. The story will progress and events will occur randomly, requiring the player to react quickly! Players will use their Fate points to influence and change the story, using this to gain additional actions in the game. Players are able to directly influence the game with their actions! A rich and challenging main story! Ambitious rulers and their advisors. Seventeen advisors with different roles. Players can influence the outcome of the game by influencing the story, the game play and the use of their actions, or by using their connections to other rulers to form an alliance. Plenty of opportunities for diplomacy. Players will need to negotiate and bargain with other rulers to gain the advantage or be able to defeat their enemies. On the more diplomatic side of things, players can send spies to discover weaknesses and gain information. Players will learn skills over the course of the game. Impact of structural disorder and the cation on crystal structure and thermoelectric properties of Cd₃Te_{7-n}Pn (n = 1, 3, 6, 9). Two kinds of isostructural compounds (Cd₃Te_{7-n}Pn (n = 1, 3, 6, 9) were successfully synthesized by high-temperature reactions. The phase purity and crystal structures of the Cd₃Te_{7-n}Pn (n = 1, 3, 6, 9) compounds were confirmed by X-ray diffraction. Raman spectra were used to investigate the short- and long-range ordered structures. All of these compounds were found to have amorphous structure. The electrical properties of the Cd₃Te_{7-n}Pn compounds (n = 1, 3, 6, 9) were measured and the thermoelectric properties were determined. The effect of the cation on the crystal structure and thermoelectric properties of the compound was studied.

F.2d 717 1974-2 Trade Cases 74,509 LEXINGTON MOTORS, INC., an Ohio corporation, Appellant, v. GENERAL MOTORS CORPORATION, a Delaware corporation, Appellee. No. 73-1978. United States Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit. Argued April 10, 1973. Decided Oct. 24, 1973. R. Ward Gilreath, Ronnie L. Horsman, Horsman, Schoppert & Gilreath, Lexington, Ky., for appellant; Frederick J. Temple, Berkman, Gordon, Levitt & Crispell, Philadelphia, Pa., John C. Ellis, Lexington, Ky., of counsel. W. Roberts Royall, Edward F. Mohan, Jr., Stanford, Hayes & Buckles, St. Louis, Mo., Edmund B. Moore, Jr., Lexington, Ky., for appellee. Before PECK, McCREE and MILLER,* Circuit Judges. PER CURIAM. 1 Lexington Motors, Inc. (Lexington) appeals from an order dismissing its action for damages¹ and injunctive relief in the Western District of Kentucky against General Motors Corporation (GM), headquartered in Detroit, Michigan. In 1975 Lexington was awarded $462,500 by the Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC), to the extent that the award reflected a recovery for five of seventeen federally authorized, "laundry list" antitrust violations² of GM. This award was made for alleged violations of section 7 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. Sec. 18. As part of the award the PSC deducted amounts which Lexington received from GM in settlement of an Ohio civil liability action brought against it by GM's Ohio franchisees for the claimed antitrust violations. As a result of this deduction the Kentucky PSC determined that Lexington was entitled to 18.5% of the 85% of the $462,500 exclusive of the deductible Ohio settlement payments.³ As Lexington had other recoveries from a series of state court or PSC actions, the PSC determined further that it was entitled to interest on the 85% award of $462,500. 2 In 1970 the United States began a federal civil action against GM and other corporations involved in the automobile trade in twelve different districts, many of which resulted in partial settlement.⁴ The federal complaints were consolidated in 1971 in the District of Columbia.
