Starring a cast of genuine world-class players, FIFA 22 will feature over 150 goals from some of the biggest world-class tournaments including the 2018 FIFA World Cup™, UEFA Champions League and UEFA Europa League. FIFA 22 also introduces "My Team," allowing the player to create and customize his or her own players to play in a particular role, from defender to midfielder, etc., and then select the player skills to match their role. The player is then challenged to strategically use their player's strengths against opponents of a similar style. FIFA players will experience an immersive new control scheme that is comfortable, responsive and focused on the most important features of the sport. The controls will be improved upon, with FIFA 17's Freekick Controls receiving significant improvements. Other core controls, as well as movement, will also be reworked for a smooth and more authentic feel. FIFA's online service will be returning, with the addition of FIFA Ultimate Team and FIFA 2K Club. The latter will allow players to climb the ranks of the club they most closely identify with. Players can earn in-game rewards and then earn money and points by playing in FIFA tournaments. FIFA Ultimate Team is an upgrade from FIFA Ultimate Team that returns to the game. On the pitch, players will now be able to grow and improve their player card as they perform in matches, and keep it that way in-game as long as it exceeds a particular rank. A complete list of features for FIFA 22 can be found here: Please note that the above list may not be final as the game is currently in development and more features may be added before release.
