programming hosts a roster of their favorite players and activities. The Devils' eighth annual Country Comes To Newark, a free one-day festival in Prudential Center's arena hosted by host Matt Loughran, features hundreds of performers and hundreds of games with never-before-seen team, club and individual giveaways. It was the magic of bingo. From 8 a.m. to noon, Bingo Buddy Dan McKenna kept line 581 in lockstep as the masses waited to play and for updates on all of the goodies they were receiving. Line 581 is made up of more than 350 employees who work for the country's largest radio broadcaster, Sports USA (now Sportsradio 94WIP). They work inside the new state-of-the-art Prudential Center. They play on the corporate-sponsored country radio station on 96.5 The Answer in Newark. But, until today, Line 581 didn't know what was about to hit them. The team showed up this morning with a truckload of new gear. "I think this is the first giveaway we've had and it was a happy accident," said Assistant Director of Media Relations Greg Scott. First up, the team brought in about a dozen new jerseys, each with a “33” patch representing the number 33. The jerseys were autographed by Devils goalies Martin Brodeur and Cory Schneider. Fans then lined up for the 100-plus-person distribution team to hand out the jerseys and tickets to Game 7 of the Stanley Cup Finals. “This wasn’t planned. This is an accident,” said Assistant Director of Promotions Anna Crawford. “This just happened.” After receiving their new team jerseys, fans were invited to the FIFA World Cup colors station to compete in a guessing game.
