i have always believed that the art of writing is akin to telling a story. a story told well is both engaging and memorable. and a novel needs just the right type of story to be set in motion to get the right impact. while most writers strive to become the best in their genre, some are talented in this respect. pathak fits squarely into the category of such writers who can tell a story. pathak never tries to impress readers but his narrating style lends itself to the pleasure of writing. but pathak has other attributes like wit and experimentation that help make his writing memorable so it is rather a surprise to notice that he has managed to avoid the traps of the thriller genre that dominates the hindi market. for example, pathak doesnt indulge in a lot of descriptions and through dialogues, makes the reader feel the emotions of the characters. he can be lyrical without forcing through description or exposition. the highly entertaining kaala kaarnaama, is a story that is set in the present but has a backward glimpse of the past. pathak has structured it around the figures of mahan and mahishasan, both familiar from his previous novels. the novel is narrated by one sardaar surendra sohal, a gangster who is deeply in love with his best friend's daughter. he tries to find out the murderer of an acquaintance of sohal, who is his friend's former girlfriend. the story is about a gang war of sorts that surfaces and ends in an interesting way. pathak renders the work highly entertaining and he is truly a master of the narration. the story is full of humor and there is a lot of action and suspense in this book.

Hindi Novels Surendra Mohan Pathak

he said that his crime stories are more a mix of science fiction than crime fiction and are researched at great lengths. he also said that he now writes five books a year, and while one is published every month, the rest of the books are serialized in various indian newspapers. thakur is a bestselling author of detective fiction, which often ventures into science fiction and fantasy. for some readers, he also writes stories of indian mythology. but he hates being labeled a supernatural writer, and the term scifi doesn't appeal to him. in addition to kaala kaarnaama, his works include the bestsellers badli bim and per anek aur hain anokha sathaniya hain. he is so identified with the mystery genre that some people call his full name - surendra mohan - as a suffix of mystery, instead of his name as it appears in hindi - surendra. he said that a popular book in india is a total mystery in english and has the same characters in english and hindi. in his book, the character in hindi language is called "ranjit" and the character in english is named "ranjit" too. there is always a twist in the story and the reader can guess what is going to happen next. he said that the thick part of the book or middle chapters, which don't form the story, are the most intriguing part. he wrote the novel, kaala kaarnaama, which had no twist and the scenes were exactly the same, every time. in the olden times, some small publishing houses used to bring out 5-6 books in a year. now, the publishing houses, that give very less amount for the annual publishing rights, are also violating the rights and selling the rights as soon as they receive some money in advance. 5ec8ef588b
